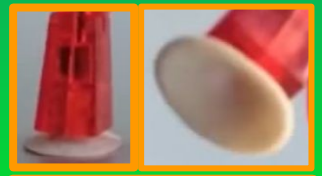
Every Kind of Stikbot Suction Cup

Description:
An important/interesting thing to note when collecting stikbots is the kind of suction cup. There a 4 versions of varying raritys:

V.1

This is the original stikbot suction cup and the rarest known to exist. It actually has writing of on it but we can't confirm what exactly it says. It was used on some prototype stikbots, primarily in promotional images. The most well known of these is a Clear Cyan prototype. So theses were likely used in VERY early development. Potentially even 2013.

V.2



This came a little after the first version and is more well known. It seems to have no writing of any kind. It was used on some prototype stikbots. The most well known are the prototype solids and The Clear Ruby Stikbot. So theses were likely used in VERY early development. Potentially even 2013.

V.3

This is the first suction cup publicly available suction cup and the rarest publicly available. It has no writing of any kind, and a more obvious seam line. This is somewhat rare being only around from about 2015 to early 2016 or late 2015. The black suction cups are much rarer as they had just introduced them with solid stikbots and they discontinued these cups.

V.4

(When we refer to V.1 and V.2 cups we mean these, as they had the widest public release)

After this they switched to this design with very thin and flat writing saying, “Zing ©2015 China Pat Peno.” However it is thought some cups said 2016 which if so would be rarer. These are, “The Classic ones,” if you will pretty common but as the years go on with new ones these do become less and less common, So this was from about 2016-2019.

V.5

After Covid and general lack of attention to the brand screwed over Zing more than they already did they made a lot of plastic cheaper and outsourced everything, including the cups. In around 2019-2020 the cups changed to have the text be a bit more pronounced. These cups are lower quality, but are the current ones we have now.

This Stikbot is very mysterious, not much is known besides it definitely existed. It was also put on an extremely rare sponsor only shirt in this same pose. We have named it this because in Spanish Huevo means egg which is what an orange + yellow color combo is sometimes called. This Stikbot was also often seen with the clear yellow in images. It may be a color inverted green stikbot however it did most likely exist even if it's not the one in this photo.

The Version one was only available if someone was able to get the Castle Deluxe Set from amazon during its pre-order run. And version 2 being the one everyone else got, but it's also very rare. That wasn't until 2022, when Zing re-released it for there easter sale. But it's very hard to get because its a ultra rare in that set.

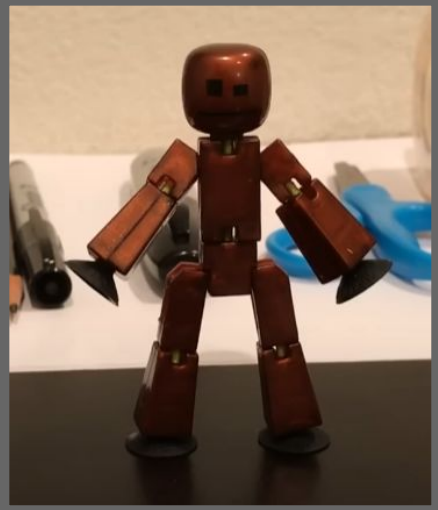
Every Stikbot Metallic Plastic Version

Version 1

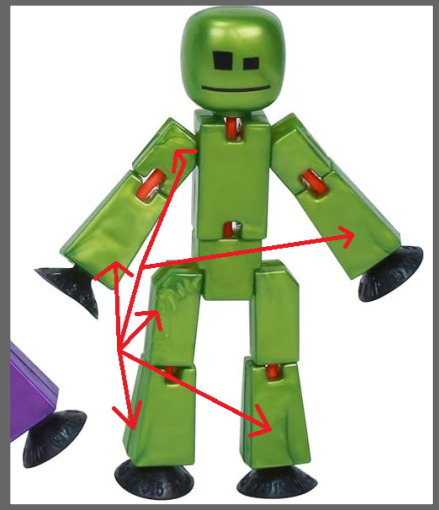


This is part of the original Metallic, “Wave,” and the rarest. It looks like shiny metal with some molding imperfections making each version unique. This is somewhat rare, when the original MetalBots shipped in late 2015-2016 this was the version that came out and is often regarded and the best. These have also started to become desired by collectors.

Version 2

In 2019-2020 the plastic and suction cup quality switched resulting in, “New Colors,” to save money. While usually some of these do come with few imperfections like the original these are far less common and overall these are a lot more flat like the photo suggests. These typically come with the V.2 Cups and a lot less desirable.

Version 3



In 2023 however with the Late Summer/Fall Wave of Stikbots more metallic ones were seen with this imperfections. In many ways more imperfections before giving a sort of liquidy vibe. And it seems like Stikbot will still be using the V.2 Plastic, however alongside thing one too.

Description:
Most information (including all the photos) on this stikbot has been found by StikmasterJack (so big thanks).

Essentially this Stikbot is totally identical to the action pack gold just with white cups (of course). Interestingly this Stikbot is seen both in single packs (like in an unboxing, which the image with the green background is from), and also in action packs. Unlike the standard action pack gold which is just in action parks as far as we are aware. Here are the main theories for the existence of this Stikbot:

1. This may have just been a factory error. Multiple photos of this Stikbot contain different colored cups, StikMasterJack even recalls seeing one with just one black cup and 4 white cups. So this could have just been a common error in the factory.

2. The Gold Action Action Packs were originally intended to have white cups (just like prototype solid Stikbots), but were cancled and a few got out of the factory (StikMasterJack recalls seeing 8 unique listings/photos), this also goes in line with the first theory.

Now the main reason why this figure is famous is due to the fact that this guy was only released in Russia, Making this packaging quite rare. But in around 2021-2022 this figure along with his comrade finally came to the states. But their were sold separately instead of being in a 2 pack. Their were each in their respective packs featuring farm pack accessories and farm Petz.
(klees note): While it was most likely done unintentionally it is interesting this Russian Exclusives were turned into farmers considering Russia’s history with Farming.

What made it Really weird was that when we asked the Fizzbuzz team about it They said that the figures were sent out but not put on a factory Line for production Yet, which is very Strange because then How did this person Get them? Well they must have been made somehow. And this Just shows how bad the communication can be with Zing.

Description:
This Junior was available in the (insert contest here), and, “The Band,” Contest. In, The Band Contest every winner would get a different lot of stikbots however one of these was in all the of the lots. This stikbot uses the new, “Clear Gold,” and new version of blue. Recently with the printing and quality of stikbots changing the faces can have more a smile, however these seem to have been made on purpose with this face. Then on July 9th of 2023 these Stikbots were found by Stikmation on the Stikbot Discord server for sale on Amazon Canada, as part of the, “Zing StikBot Support Ukraine Pack.” A portion of the money made from this pack would be donated to, “Selected Ukrainian NSOs.” This was likely the origin of the colors existence.

Being one of the rarest publicly available stikbot monsters! And it is no surprise why. This is one of the best looking monsters no questions asked, even being the face of the brand. So when this stikbot first came out, it was extremely hard to find, it was always sold out. And after they stopped making V1 Monsters Grimm raised in value as the years went on. For instance Klee film spent over 3 Years! Searching for a single pack version used. However the stikbot market has gotten better sense then.

This box has grim with red suction cups!

Rarity: Somewhat Uncommon
Price: 10-15$
Description:
This Stikbot was advertised along with AquaFang as being, “The Ultra Rare!” Stikbots in the mystery pack, however Kyron didn't sell too well. In fact shelf-warming may be an understatement. It sold so badly Stikbot still will put the figure is packs just to get rid of leftover stock. Due to the fact that this figure had only really one specific purpose, this meant that this figure was used very rarely in animations, creators often times would make fun of this fact or even make whole skits altogether talking about how this figure was not used. With that being said it's actually a quite good figure and one we strongly recommend!

Description:
When looking through the stikbot.latino instagram Klee film found along side some latin exclusive stikbots some interesting Stikbot monsters. Like this Dark Translucent Green Cerberus. It has no face printing, which could imply that they made for for, “fun.” See stikbot does not really have an exact origin. Its credited to Zing, but Zing is in Australia, Portland, Hong Kong, etc. And stikbot is credited to, AU, Portland, Hong Kong, Uk, Steve, Singapore, philippines… And I could go on and on. But one of their main base of operations is in Hong Kong which is also around where the stikbots get made in a factory. So a lot of this is not out of the question that some employs just tried different colors of plastic to see what it might look like. But regardless this Cerberus is very rare.

Released/Re-released:
2018-2018(?)

Color: Hazy Light Teal
Face Color: Black
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Unknown
Description:
This Triceratops is what is thought to be the first Glow In The Dark Stik-Dino, along with being one of the rarest. This figure seems to have been first shown off from the Stikbot Latin Account on instagram back in 2018 (July 12th, 2018), in a, “New,” Action Pack with the Standard Dino Action Pack, with an extra stikbot, and Stik-Velociraptor. Presumably it was available in Latin speaking countries but this is not fully confirmed. What we do know is you could get it online on some shops, but also in Person in the UK. Making this of course a European/Latin exclusive. But there more, as you may notice in the product shots the, “Fake Glow In The Dark,” Color is used but when the figure actually shipped it was the real glow in the dark. The on in product shots is likely just a prototype or test but regardless this means 2 versions exist. Likely the non-glow in the dark is rarer for never coming out.

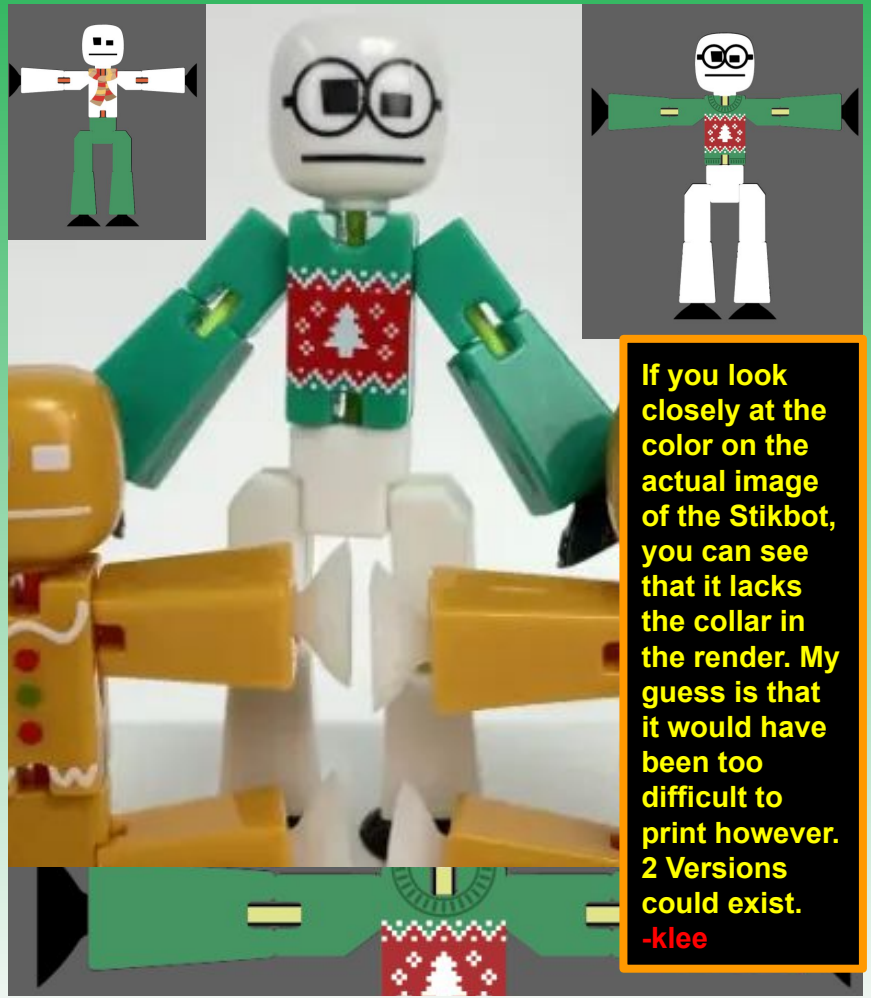
This dapper guy was first seen on 12/18/2022 in a 2D rendering(alongside a stikbot with a scarf that we never heard of again) likely used for reference when being manufactured. The image was sent by "AwesomePotato," a Stikbot Central Server Admin and employee at Stikbot/Fizzbuzz. A little over 4 months later on 4/27/2023 it was announced that Honorable Mention winners of the "1000 Members Celebration Contest," had the choice between this Sweater Stikbot/2 early prototype Gingerbread Juniors. Or a pack of 8 Solid Stikbots (or something of equivalent value). The only Winner (we know) who was offered this choice was S Neo Productions (Who sent us this photo, which he was sent). Who chose the 8 pack instead. Leading this Stikbot to have no remaining photos. However, I think it's very likely that This stikbot could come back in a future advent calendar as they have done this in the previous years.



If you look closely at the color on the actual image of the Stikbot, you can see that it lacks the collar in the render. My guess is that it would have been too difficult to print however. 2 Versions could exist.

Description:
Often considered the worst of the the Series one this sad pirate is quite strange. It feels like they just added a bunch of random parts that didn't sell well into one. It has a torso that does not match or look anything like the back. A Faceprint that cuts itself off. And colors that just don't really go together. If the torso was red or the arms were gold it would have made this infinitely better. And custom versions of different stikbots using this figure can look quite good! But Stock it is just sad.

Description:
This Tan Klikbot used to be quite rare due to the fact the majority of its life has been an In-Person exclusive, this basically means it's only been at 5-Below and will most likely never leave. When it first came out it was very rare for its uncommon color, having not really any ties to lore, and being good for customs. However in recent years Klikbots have been shelf warming at 5 Below and this is a very good example of that. If you go to a 5 Below that has klikbots its probably rarer if this guy isn't there. So you can get the figure for about $5 there. For online a lot of people purchased it when it was rare so for online be ready to pay around $15-20 + shipping.

Lore:

While the full lore is not fully know, these klikbots seem to be part of the group that took over after the original galaxy defenders left or disappeared… And in my personal opinion (klee film) while as of writing this less information has surfaced their designs are much more interesting then the previous galaxy defenders.

KLIXX
CREATUREZ

I thought I should give a bit of an introduction to these guys because while I think most people have seen them they don't really, KNOW them. (Neither do I lmao).

But essentially you know those fidget toys that have ratchet (klik/klix) joints? They can fold into a cube and such. Well that's basically what these are, except their more of a figure then a fidget toy. The main reason why we will be talking about these guys is because their most likely the main inspiration for Klikbots. While we dont know exactly when these came out it was definitely before Klikbots. It seems these cubes started in the 90s/2000s but traded companies quite a bit until they were made by Zing. While many other versions exist we will only really be talking about Klixx Creatures because of their similarities and how they have appeared with Stikbots/Klikbots.

While there are most likely TONS more of Colors/versions (like the ones we see in this picture that) are made both by Zing and other companies like Chase Toys. One thing we can confirm is that their quite hard to get your hands on. They sell out VERY fast and while some are still sold in the US they have a lot more presence in the Europe and Oceania and Asia and- In Fact they actually have a big presence in almost every other country except the US. They used too but not much anymore. They are quite desired though, look at this listing from Zing Toys, at MOST they sold out in 5 Days! These are record numbers for Stikbots. Not to mention on The UK Amazon page ALONE one ONE is left in stock.

But we would recommend getting your hands on them if you can, especially if you make custom Stikbot's/klikbots. While we don't know for sure these parts should be compatible with Klikbots. So if you want a claw hand or a snake head these might be one of your best bets! Now back to stikbots!

This Image is from the creator of Stikbot's/Ceo of Zing's Youtube pfp. However for years we thought it was just a custom painted stikbot until closer inspection. It resembles much more of a Stikfas or Shockini, and is made from what looks to be hand carved/painted wood With a paper face glue on and likely suction cups from a department store.

Description:
In 2013-2014 when Stikbots were first being tested and developed. The Factories tested out numerous color combos and cord colors. The main ones that we know of are Red, Yellow, Green, Blue, and White (this is The Pure Translucent Stikbot). Yellow and Red were likely used for the translucent stikbots, however Green, Blue, and White never made it past the factory however, most of the Molds were thrown out and altogether Former Employee Cyan estimates that in total there may be 3-5 of these figures left (counting all colors, including the 3 Know copies of the Pure Translucent). These figures would likely have had no printing on the Cups but this is also unknown as at this time they may have also been testing Suction Cups. These will likely never be seen unless an employee has kept them all this time and comes out with them. But we hope they surface some day.

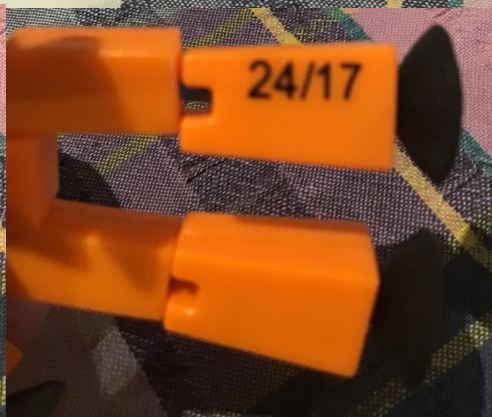
These Stikbots besides the prototype suction cups are near identical to their 2015/2016 counterparts, just with the printed face being White instead of Black. When we asked Cyan, someone who used to work with producing Stikbots, he said that Zing had to recall this color for some reason, which after looking at lots of early 2014/2015 printed faces, if I had to guess I would assume they had not found the correct ink for white yet, as it would rub off too easily. There are probably lots of these for every early Stikbot color, but the condition of the print is realistically not very good.

Numbered Shipment “Misprinted” Stikbots

Released/Re-released:
2016-Now(?)
Rarity: Somewhat Common (depending where you live)
Description:
These Stikbots are found in parts of Europe. But mainly in the UK and Australia. When stikbots are shipped to these places overseas they use these prints as almost, “factory numbers,” for reference. But most likely shipment numbers. “it means this:
46 = the week in the year it needs to be shipped

17 = the year it is being shipped in” (Source of Orange Blue Images)
In Australia and UK there are are HUGE stikbot markets, this can be why they have exclusives to these places or something else, to test the products. This also means that there even if these were uncommon. The amount of stikbots with these, “Tattoos,” are so common that their not really rare but rather more of a cool novelty.



US Numbered “Misprinted” Stikbots

Released/Re-released:
2019-Now(?)
Rarity: Very Common (depending where you live)
Description:
These Stikbots are found Mainly in parts of North America and Canada. While it is unknown why these stikbots may have this printing it is most likely some serial number. Unlike the other other European and Oceanian, “Misprints,” These come off quite easily and are much more common. If you have 50-150 Stikbots that you have accumulated in the past couple years you most likely come across one. While these are not rare. It is uncommon to find one still with the printing still intact.

Factory Error/Misprinted Stikbots

Rarity: Very Rare
Description:
These Stikbots are as the name says Factory Errors, this means that like a misprinted face these stikbots may have a missing limb that was not put on or plastic that was over molded.

Stikbots with Missing Limbs

From, “Kidsfilmingclub (kfc)”

These stikbot came out of the factory without a limb and in the packaging as the name suggests.

Stikbot With Mixed Cups

From, “klee film”

Klee film saw a good deal on a stikbot lot. When he bought it despite it smelling like dish soap Klee found a pink translucent stikbot with 3 of the suction cups having no printing (meaning around 2015), but the 4th had printing.

Klikbot Name: Prototype Silver Klikbot

Released/Re-released:
2018-2019?
Type: Solid
Color: Silver
Face Color: Black or Red?
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Unknown
Description:
At the 2019 Fall New York Toy Fair, Zing showed off Klikbots for the first time in person. At Zing's booth they set up another table for the then new Klikbots, at this booth all 4 of the original Translucent Galaxy Defenders along with the Solid Klikbots. Alongside a display of the Solid Klikbots there was a Solid Silver Klikbot with no hands and a fading face riding what looks to be some kind of mech creature built with Klixx parts.

Lore:

On the boxes of the original Klikbots in the corner there was a Grey Klikbot render promoting the, "New Klik Technology." klee's headcanon has always been that this guy was either the creator of klikbots/klik technology or hes just someone extremely familiar with it and not afraid to experiment. Maybe he makes new weapons and designs for the Galaxy Defenders. While this is just and Idea considering he's on the box like this, if this came out I'm very sure it would have followed a story along this lines.

Klikbot Name: The Translucent Purple Klikbot

Released/Re-released:
2018-2019?
Type: Translucent
Color: Purple
Face Color: White,Black
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Unknown
Description:
At the 2019 Fall New York Toy Fair, Zing showed off Klikbots for the first time in person. At Zing's booth they set up another table for the then new Klikbots, at this booth all 4 of the original Translucent Galaxy Defenders where shown except Cosmo (Blue). Instead this purple klikbot was shown, however the art at the booth showed a blue klikbot rather than this fellow so they likely did not have a Cozmo to show and instead showed off this guy in his place. Out of all the Klikbots at the toy fair (besides the silver klikbot), this had the least versions shown, only being 3, 2 with a white face print and the one Alex is holding having a black print. My personal theory is as follows: The original Klixx figures were selling HORRIBLY and were just taking up space in the warehouses and even desks of employees at Zing. So eventually they realized they could turn these parts and plastic into new figures and through this they used the plastic from the purple Klixx Kreatures (because it seems to be the same color etc.) And this prototype is what came out of it.

(this is also from of the first stikbots/klikbots to have a white face print)

These 2 fabulous fellows were Costumes made to help promote stikbot in stores. While the only that photos exist online are from this stikbots UK Journeys the suit is thought to have been worn in some US stores. The costume appeared twice once in 2018 (without text on the front), and with text on the front in 2019. It is thought that these are 2 versions of suit however they may be one. So 2 versions of this suit could exist. The Version without text on the front is probably more desired/valuable. The suit may have also been presented with the Promotional stikbots.

The 8gb Stikbot USB Stick(Stik)

KFC got this in a goodie bag back in April of 2016.

Released/Re-released: 2015-2016(?)
Type: USB Drive
Price: Priceless
Face Color: Black
Face Expression: Neutral/flipped
Rarity: Impossible
Description:

Back in 2015 to help promote stikbot these fabulous usb sticks were made. However their main purpose came in February of 2016 with at the 2016 USA Toy Fair were these were given out to ededies of the stikbot booth. As you can see they could hold about 8GB of storage for all your stikbot needs and came in a small Plastic Bag. Originally you would be able to take a photo behind the green screen at the booth and your photos would be put on the USB Stick however this was not done. They were also given out in some goodie bags. If you find one of these it will probably be someplace random like some toy guy's attic or antique shop. However it is likely that after this there were other types of USB's given out at events and to employees.

This kind of photo would have been uploaded to the usb.

The Stikbot Toy Fair PhotoShoot Friend :>

Released/Re-released:
2016
Type: Solid/Cardboard
Color: Costume Red
Sting/Bungee Cord Color: Yellow
Suction Cup(s) Color: Black
Face Color: Black
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:

You can see on the image to right the app in the upper right corner compositing the green screen with them in it.

For the 2016 Toy Fair to show off the, “revolutionary,” Stikbot App at the Toy fair there was a green Screen which you could stand behind and have your photo taken behind a different kinds of backdrops. You know how at some photoshoot areas at parties there's little paper hats or mustaches on sticks which you hold up? This is the same idea. Once you were done taking the photo your photo would have been uploading to The 8GB USB but this plan was scraped. Very little is known of this guy but is probably either thrown away or in storage. When asked about Price, The Dark Side of Youtube said, “60-70 bucks, but if there is only a couple of these left maybe double the price.” However I would assume there may only be this one or maybe other standees in other colors. Speaking of which I would not call this a standee because, it can't stand up on it own.

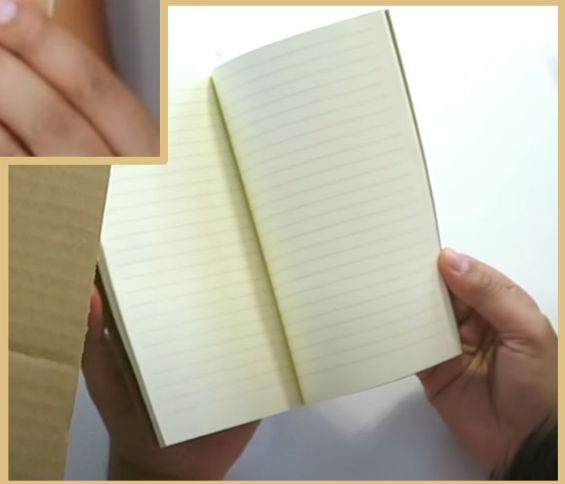
Price: 20-40$ (depending on condition)?
Description:
This Notebook along with various items were included in the classic goodie bags. However you could also get them on the Zing Store for a while making them not too rare? But no one has seen one go up for sale in at least 3 years so very mysterious. They were also mainly given to influencers who likely would have held onto them.



The Green Stikbot Plush

2018-Now(?)
Type: Solid/100% Cotton?
Color: Green
Sting/Bungee Cord Color: Silver Wire(?)
Suction Cup(s) Color: Black
Face Color: Black
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Extremely Uncommon
Price: 20-80$ (depending on condition)
Description:
The Stikbot plush is one of the rarest publicly available stikbot products (so far on the slides if you read this from start to finish). However this green version is the most common. All versions would made in a partnership with Zing and, “Basic Fun,” a Mainly Plush manufacturer. One of the coolest parts about these figures was that they were wired! In all the limbs was a wire skeleton that lets you pose the figure how you like which is incredible. It also had a speaker inside letting saying a handful of iconic lines. It was able to be purchase anywhere in the world through a short limited quantity preorder on the Zing store (?). It sold out very fast and was shipped out and never heard from again. However in canada like with the Keychains he was available at toys r us until around 2019-2020. However there have been some reports from people like Leopold who ordered something from Zing Canada (a somewhat unreliable service than their US and European counterparts) and got the wrong items. This would not be so weird however Leopold got sent 2 Sealed Green Plushes instead meaning they may be self warming in canada. (if you want to buy these guys look in canada).

Stikbot Head Keychains

In Order of Most to least Common:

Clear Target White (How ironic) 8th
Clear White 7th
Clear Light Green 6th
Solid Pink 5th
Clear Pink 4th
Clear Blue 3rd
Clear Red 2nd
Solid Purple 1st (Rarest)

Released/Re-released:
2015-2018(?)
Type: Solid/Translucent
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:
These were the true stikbot keychains! Given out mainly in goodie bags and to prize winners these keychains are just a stikbot head with the spinal string wrapped back around. It has the #Stikbot logo printed on the back of the head along with different forms of packaging as the years went on. Like KidsFilmingClub said one of the downsides to these is the printing, while cool you don't want to use them on your keys because it will wear off. There are in total 8 colors and ironically the rarest color combo for a stikbot out of these 8 is the most common keychain.

The Green Stikbot Dangler

Released/Re-released:
2018-Now(?) (like the plushies overstock may still get put into orders)
Material: Rubber (?)
Type/Color: Solid Green
Sting/Bungee Cord Color: Orange
Suction Cup(s) Color: Black
Face Color: Black
Face Expression: Neutral
Rarity: Uncommon
Price: $2-20
Description:
The Stikbot Dangler! What an odd name, mostly known of the, “Only,” stikbot Keychain. This Green version is the most common. This guy’s release was quite mysterious. Also produced by, “Basic Fun,” It was supposed to come out with the Stikbot Plushies. And it did! Just only in Canada at Toys R Us. But it may have also come out in Mexico for some reason maybe as a last hurrah for Stikbot Latin we don’t know for sure. But anyway it is thought that the reason why these figures came out was due to the Joester Loria Group taking control over marketing. And in many articles them saying how they wanted a lot more stikbot merch, and while most of what they promised did not come this was one of the results of that along with presumably the newer (2018) shirts. But these figures danglers did not sell well to say the least. In fact they were always on clearance and often were $3 CAN at Toys R Us (2.20 USD). So if you want to collect rare stikbots and want to get started this is a good start their easy to find but cool in their own right.

This box display was what they were in at the 2018 New York Toy Fair which is probably what they looked like in stores.

“Not Now I’m Busy.” Design

Released/Re-released:
2018-Now(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Solid Orange with Black Suction Cups
Rarity: Extremely Uncommon
Price: $20-40(?)
Description:
This, “edgy,” design is not very original as you can guess but is loved no doubt for its goofiness. All these pieces of clothing seem to be 100% cotton and came in probably came in essentially any shirt color you wanted for it just being a generic t shirt, So this part of the Archive is more talking about the designs. Like the other designs this is available on sweaters (like the in photo). Hoodies, shirts, etc. A couple years ago knock off companies started reproducing this merch and this was one of the designs they choose to knock off. So you may actually still be able to get your hands on the merch.

Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: I'm not going to name them all
Rarity: Extremely Uncommon
Price: $20-60(?)
Description:
This design is a bit more original having both Stikbot, Stikbot, and Stikbot not to mention 4 other stikbots and bob on it. All these pieces of clothing seem to be 100% cotton and came in probably came in essentially any shirt color you wanted for it just being a generic t shirt, So this part of the Archive is more talking about the designs. Type of Stikbot: White Silhouette Stikbots
Price: $20-50(?)
Description:

“Stikbot Face” Design

Released/Re-released:
2016-2019(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Black Stikbot Outline
Rarity: Quite Rare
Price: $40-70(?)
Description:
This is one of the rarer shirts only really being given away in goodie bag mainly to content creators, but it was available for a short time on the Zing Store. Interestingly unlike the other shirts this one seemed to be mainly made in adult sizes rather than kids (in goodie bags or not).

“WARNING MAY DAB AT ANY TIME” Design

Released/Re-released:
2018-2022(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Solid Green Stikbot
Rarity: Unknown
Price: Unknown
Description:
This shirt is one of the biggest jokes in the community for very obvious reasons. This while not the rarest may be one of the rarer shirts in the future, but it used to be the opposite. Because this shirt is such a joke it was not even thought to have been real, this speculation made everyone really forget that it was actually produced. Eventually people started to find a listing on WISH for it making people think its a knock off when it fact it was real. Stikbot officially promoted it for a while as we would later find out but the original version is extremely rare. But like we said before there was a WISH listing which was taken down a couple years ago as of 2023. Sometimes on knock off sites there are legitimate products like some Megabloks figures on Aliexpress. So the listing may have been real and if so would make the original legitimate Zing version go down in value however it may have been fake and idk what i'm doing writing about a warning may dab shirt.

“Stikbots and Petz Shirt (Bear Shirt)” Design

Released/Re-released:
2018-Unknown(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Black Stikbot Outline
Rarity: Quite Uncommon
Price: $20-50(?)
Description:
This is one of the rarer shirts only really being given away in goodie bag mainly to content creators, but it was available for a short time on the Zing Store along with being able to be bought at hot topic is seems (stikbot has peaked guys). As pointed out by Kidsfilmingclub the reason most people remember this shirt is because he pointed out that it has a prototype bear which was supposed to have been released but was canceled at the last minute.

“Stikbots and Petz Shirt (Bear Shirt)” Design

Released/Re-released:
2018-Unknown(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Solid Red,Green,Blue, and Orange Stikbot with Logo
Rarity: Quite Uncommon
Price: $5-30(?)
Description:
This is a shirt. There is not much interesting info about it besides it could be purchased at Old Navy, but it was likely not the only one. Like the Bear Shirt you could also most likely find it at Hot Topic at some point. The art used gets every cord correct on the figures except the Solid orange who instead of having a blue cord has a white cord. This is a common error with this specific design we will see time and time again. The only stikbot to actually have a white string we know of is The Pure Translucent. It seems to be most common in kids sizes.

“Stikbots Fading in Walk Cycle 2015 20K Contest VidCon Shirt” Design

Released/Re-released:
2015-Unknown(?)
Material: Presumably 100% Cotton
Type of Stikbot: Translucent White, And all versions of Translucent blue?
Rarity: Beyond Impossible
Price: Beyond Priceless
Description:
This like many other things at the stikbot booth at VidCon 2015 is extremely rare. The Design is hard to make out but seems like a Translucent White Stikbot’s walk cycle but the Stikbot progressively turns into a Clear Blue Cobalt Stikbot, and on the back of the Shirt says, “*$20,000 Video Contest.” This shirt was most likely never sold, and would have to have been given out been one of the people working at Zing who attended the show. While it seems like they did sell some shirts like the Black and White Stikbot schematic, another rare piece. This shirt was most likely never for sale and if all of the people who wore it hold onto it then it never will. Also while this is just a guess, there may actually be the Pure Translucent Stikbot on the Shirt even if it's just a mock up, do to how hard to see it is.

“Promotional Employee Stikbot Vietnam” Design

Stik·e electronics

Released/Re-released:
2015-2016(?)
Description:
Before we get into Stik-e's products I feel we should give some backstory. Like Stikbots in South America, they came out in many other countries prior to the US release of Stikbots. It is thought that they may have actually come out in some places in 2014. One of these places were Latin speaking countries, specifically Mexico. Along with exclusive stikbots what is thought to be the first stikbot sub-line came out, "Stik-e Electronics." As the name implies they were mainly bendable USB lights made for clipping onto your desk for animations (they seem to all be LED's). Many products were sold, like the USB Power Bank for the lights, but while we don't know the quality of these lights they were likely just label slapped on from some cheap manufacturer. However these are extremely rare in pretty much every country, likely even Mexico, 1 light to the right collector may well be over $100, not to mention the stikbots included, but we will get to that later. Now on with Stik-e!

Stikbot Name: “The Stik-e Electronics Animation Studio”

Released/Re-released:
Mid 2015- Late 2016
Material: PVC (for Box)
Type of Stikbot: [redacted]
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:
This is the iconic Stik-e pack, truly incredible! While this was sold in retail at some point but was mainly given away to people who passed a certain amount of Views/Subscribers on Youtube and contacted the Stikbot Latin Facebook Account, if they got approved then they would become a partner (ambassador) with Stikbot Latin and get free gifts like this (hey zing if your seeing this you should totally do this again). So as you can guess this is extremely rare, for this pack says you get 5 stikbots all being rare in some way, The Red with Purple Strings, The Blue with Green Strings, The Green with Purple Strings, The White with Red/Orange Strings, and The Purple with Blue Strings. Some packs may have had The Black Translucent Included in the pack too. It Also came with some kind bendable tripod for your phone, 1 Clip on Desk Light and one Usb Light with Power Bank. Overall if you see any of these packs make sure to pick them up!

Stikbot Name: “The Stik-e Electronics Stikbot Studio Suitcase”

Released/Re-released:
2015-2016
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:
Yes for those wondering this was likely the first, “Stikbot Studio.” Coming with:

- 1 Tripod
- 2 LED Lights
- 1 Flexible Phone Holder
- 1 Power Bank
- 2 Green with Purple Strings
- 2 Red with Purple Strings
- 1 Blue with Green Strings

For only $35 Dollars as a retails price this was a steal! However adjusted for inflation and all that it comes to about $50 so besides the stikbots and accessories which you could already buy by themselves. Your paying for a cheap plastic box with stickers when if you really wanted a traveling case you could just use a better quality heavier duty one so it makes sense if this didn't sell well.

Stikbot Name: “The Stik-e Electronics Phone Holder & Led Light”

Released/Re-released:
2015-2016
Parts included: Flexible Tripod Holder, Flexible USB Light
Types of Stikbot you could get:
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:
This pack includes the obscure bendable tripod and USB light however it has no Power Bank to our knowledge. Very cool, very rare and this may be the only photo of it. And it retailed for about $15.

Stikbot Name: “The Stik-e Electronics Power Bank”

Released/Re-released:
2015-2016
Type of Stikbot: The Red with Purple Strings
Rarity: Impossible
Price: Priceless
Description:
This is the Stik-e Power Bank, a Bank of Power if you will for your USB Stik-e lights so you could have them more portably. It is unknown for sure if this product actually came out in its own pack but its very very likely it came out with The Red with Purple String stikbot. 2 versions of this Power Bank exist, one with blue on the inside with a glass like plastic surrounding it on the exterior and one with white, not much is known about either but the white one is much more common (still very rare though). It has 2 lights on the top by the USB ports indicating the charge of the Power Bank presumably. This is also one of the few Stik-e products that has more images then just product photos. This would have likely retailed for about $10 and had about 2,400 mAH of charge, which is very cool that they actually told you how much power it had, considering its very rare for companies to actually do that nowadays.

Prototype Green Tripod

Description:
This as the title says is a Prototype green Tripod found by The Dark Side Of Youtube, in a prototype pack with the Rare Target White Translucent and Rare Blue Translucent. While this Tripod likely never made it out into the public market the 2 Stikbots were likely sold together in other Packs. Back to the tripod its very green and lacks rubber stoppers and has what looks to be a white plastic o-ring type thing, (idk why it would be plastic) were the metal normally goes. However this is also unknown. It could be worse or better quality, we don't know.

V1 Tripod

Modified tripod by fan

Photos by That Stikbot Channel

Description:

This is the V1 Tripod, This was used in most sets up until about 2018, however it would still appear. In Fact sometimes when ordering from Zing and Amazon you may still randomly get the V1 instead of the V2. It has 4 Points of articulation. 3 being the legs attached by ball joints with removable rubber stoppers at the end. However these were not on the original models it is unknown exactly when they we added but sometime around 2017-2018 is our guess. The 4th point is how this tripod works. Using 2 springs encased the in the plastic tubes with a metal top connected to said springs when you pull the top using the engrained Zing logo which slots into the metal top you are able to stretch the strings relative to the size of your phone. The foam mat on the bottom also helping it not slip off. This works very well and is used by some Stop Motion Creators who don't even like stikbots. Yet this tripod is perfect.

Green V1 Tripod

Description:
This is the V1 Tripod but green its the exact same, not rare maybe uncommon but that's a stretch, there's just not the best photos of it. It's a lot more lime/neon in person.

V2 Tripod

Description:

This is the V2 Tripod, This took over from its predicer in about 2018. It has the same 4 Points of articulation. 3 being the legs attached by ball joints with removable rubber stoppers at the end. However these were not on the original models it is unknown exactly when they we added but sometime around 2017-2018 is our guess.The 4th point is how this tripod works. Using 2 springs encased the in the plastic tubes with a metal top connected to said springs when you pull the top using the engrained Zing logo which slots into the metal top you are able to stretch the strings relative to the size of your phone. The foam mat on the bottom also helping it not slip off, however the main way this differs from the first one is that the foam area where the phone rests is shorter. This allows for (technically) more movement, and was probably made for this reason along with phones getting slimmer and to cut costs. This still works very well and is used by some Stop Motion Creators who don’t even like stikbots. Yet this tripod is perfect.

Stikbot 2 packs (OG packaging)

Keep in mind while looking through the next couple slides very little is known about these ones so please bear with us.

Description

These stikbot 2 packs are very rare, possibly these are rare because they may have been released around 2018-2019 (The Dark times of Stikbot). Because of less popularity of Stikbots at that time, many of stikbot products were canceled or were released but didn't do so well. So around the era where the OG brown box was coming to a close, one of the last things they sold were the 3 pack, and the DELUXE Action Pack. These sets are very rare, and not many stores hold them due to the less demand for stikbots. It's Possible that the DELUXE Action Pack with the hair piece had 3 types, Brown, Black, and possibly Blonde, but we are not sure.

Stikbot 3 packs (OG packaging) (AKA Stikbot Triple Pack)

Description

One of the last things sold in the OG Brown Packaging were the Stikbot Triple Pack. They were of course hard to find because of the less demand of stikbots. Not many stores hold these and looks like they were only released to the US. Your best chance of Finding these packs are on Ebay and Mercari listings.

NOOOO YOU CANT SAY THAT THE STIKBOT 3 PACK CAME OUT!!!!!!!!!!!!!! :(((((((((

haha 3 pack go brrrrrr
